Ilex meserveae Blue Maid Pleached on a trellis H160xW100. In pots

Ilex Blue Maid is a holly which has been bred to create a dense screen without the traditionally spikey leaves. Blue Maid will also produce berries in the winter as long as there is a male Ilex in the local vicinity. These have been trained against a trellis to keep the screen as narrow as possible and take up very little space in the garden.

Plant at a distance of 1 plants per metre to create an instant hedge.

Griselinia littoralis 80-100cm In pots

Griselinia littoralis (New Zealand Broadleaf) is an attractive evergreen which forms a more unusual hedge. The leaf is a pale green colour with yellow stems. Griselinia is a particularly good choice for hedges near the sea with good tolerance for the salt air.

Plant at a distance of 3 plants per metre to create an instant hedge.
